Ottawa – Thornhill MP Susan Kadis, marked Holocaust Memorial Day by laying a wreath on Parliament Hill and issuing a Member's Statement in the House of Commons, which called for action against increasing anti-Semitic incidents in Canada and a greater role for Canada against the genocide in Darfur.

"The holocaust was one of the darkest chapters in human history and its horrific crimes against humanity shook the very foundations of modern civilization," Susan Kadis said. "Today, we honour the victims of the holocaust and strengthen our resolve to not allow any sanctuary for hate in the world.
